

MACVEAGH LIKELY TO QUIT CABINET

Reports Are That Quarrel With Andrew Will Cause His Retirement.

Washington, D. C., July 7.—Reports in the Treasury Department say that Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh would quit the Cabinet in November as the result of the row with Assistant Secretary Andrew. This row resulted in Dr. Andrew resigning upon request of the President. The reports stated since the secretary made his denial on Friday.

It is generally believed that the reluctance of the President to have a cabinet split on the eve of a presidential campaign will force him to adhere to his asserted position not to report the case at all, either at the request of some of his political friends at the Capitol, who are staunch friends of Dr. Andrew, or of his Cabinet.

Some of these friends—Senators Lodge and Crane of Massachusetts, and Senator Rogers of New York—are not willing to let the matter drop. These Senators desire nothing more than to get the scalp of the Secretary of the Treasury, who they say, is a disturbing element in the Cabinet administration. It will be recalled that Senator Crane was one of the closest advisers of the President who advised the President to "fire" Postmaster-General Hitchcock, and whose determination to "fire" Hitchcock led to the break between the President and his Postmaster-General.

While the President will do his utmost to close down the controversy between Secretary MacVeagh and A. Platt Andrew, it is expected that he will demand of the bureau and division chiefs who are mentioned by Dr. Andrew in his caustic letter to Secretary MacVeagh that they either resign or declare allegiance to Secretary MacVeagh. Some of the President's friends fear that if he takes this step he will reopen the whole fuss. According to reports, the President does not think so.

None of the officials mentioned in Dr. Andrew's letter would discuss the matter. All are here with the exception of Comptroller of the Currency Murray.

REFUSES TO TALK ABOUT HIMSELF

Unique Character in Lynchburg Hospital Will Not Reveal Identity.

Lynchburg, Va., July 7.—The authorities of the City Hospital here are now dealing with one of the most pitiful and yet unique characters that has been known in Lynchburg for a long time. Several months ago a one-eyed white tramp from a Norfolk and Western train twenty-five miles east of Lynchburg, and he was brought here for treatment at St. Andrew's Hospital. The surgeons found it necessary to amputate the remaining arm and a leg, leaving the man only one of his four limbs.

From the time the man was admitted to St. Andrew's and to the time he was taken to the City Hospital as a ward of the city, he has readily refused to divulge his name or give the slightest information as to his past. The nurses have named the cripple "William Parker," and they have interested themselves now in securing artificial legs for him. The man seems to appreciate the care given him, but nothing can induce him to talk about himself or his people.

COUNCIL CAUCUS ON CARD TO-NIGHT

Twenty Members of Lower Branch Will Pick Officers and Make Rules.

A caucus of members elected to the Common Council, who take office on September 1 next, will be held in the Council chamber to-night for the purpose of effecting a working organization. The call specifies as the business of the caucus the nomination of president, vice-president and the appointment of a committee on rules. President Peters will succeed himself without opposition. Since Vice-President H. R. Pollard, Jr. retires from the Council at the end of this term, the position of vice-president is open, and the only name as yet suggested is that of Captain Morgan R. Mills, now chairman of the Committee on Water.

The incoming Council will be composed of twenty members—just one-half the size of the present body. The only two members new to the City Council will be James J. Pollard, in Lee Ward, and J. B. Welsh, in Jefferson. The new Council will be composed of the following members:

Clay Ward—Messrs. Seaton, Umlaut, Huber, Peters and Haddon.
Lee Ward—Messrs. Pollard, Vonderlehr, Butler, Powell and Ratcliffe.
Madison Ward—Messrs. Pollock, Fuller, Jones, Moore and Atkinson.
Jefferson Ward—Messrs. Mills, Rogers, Welsh, Lumsden and Sullivan.

Since the size of the body has been reduced it is anticipated that the committee on rules to be named to-night will prepare a working plan for reducing the size of the various committees and possibly for consolidating a number of the minor committees, placing the duties of the Committees on Commerce, St. John's Building Ground and Markets all under the Committee on Grounds and Buildings, consolidating the Committees on Light and Electricity, and placing the work of river improvement under the Committee on Streets. The new Committee on Streets, if made up by wards, will consist of one Councilman and one Alderman from each of the four new wards, making a committee of eight instead of sixteen, as at present. The other committees will probably be reduced to seven, to be made up of four Councilmen and three Aldermen, instead of committees of twelve, as at present.

The rules to be adopted will be temporary in their nature, merely for the conduct of the city's business from September 1 to January 1, when the first Administrative Board takes charge. After that the committees having control of departments will cease to exist, and a new set of rules governing the work of the Council under the new plan of government will no doubt be prepared, to take effect from January 1 next.

Red Men Elect Officers.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Lynchburg, Va., July 7.—Minneapolis Tribe of Red Men, of Lynchburg, has elected the following officers for the coming year: Sachem, C. H. Thomas; Senior Sagamore, W. P. Preston; Junior Sagamore, J. G. Deacon; Chief of Records, C. A. Peters; Keeper of Wampum, W. T. Wright.

FUTURE NOMINATION THROUGH PRIMARIES

Eye Disease Enables Man to Go Through Best Sellers in an Hour, Says Doctor.

Chicago, July 7.—Dr. G. M. Gould of Ithaca, N. Y., has a friend who has smashed all speed records in reading. The physician tells about it in the current number of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

By reason of an ophthalmic ailment, according to Dr. Gould, the man, name not given, can read a page of a book at a glance with no more effort than others take for a single line. A half dozen "best sellers" last him about an hour. Just a few glances at the pages of an ordinary newspaper and it is absorbed. Of course, where he is deeply interested he must pause to give the terrific rush of ideas time to diffuse. A little thing like a bundle of magazines, where there is no call for mental stimulus, lasts him about half an hour.

How to graft dead areas in the living is among the medical and surgical wonders told. Dr. A. Magitot of Paris, France, who discovered and perfected the transplanting of segments of the human eye, discusses his latest discovery—that of preserving the eyes of dead persons or of still born children for an almost indefinite time before transplanting them.

After discussing various experiments on rabbits and frogs, by which transplantation was perfected, Dr. Magitot explains that the surgical marvel can only be performed on similar species in which biologic conditions are the same.

MAN KILLED; BODY PLACED ON TRACK

Sensational Developments Expected in Inquest Over Remains of Pressley.

Asheville, N. C., July 7.—Sensational developments are expected to-morrow afternoon at the inquest which is to be held to inquire into the death of Claude Pressley, who was found in a dying condition on the tracks of the Southern Railway last Friday morning, and died while being brought to this city for medical attention.

County officials, who have been working quietly on the case, profess to have discovered evidence tending to prove that Pressley was not struck by a train, as was at first supposed, but was murdered with a hatchet by a man with whom he had an altercation over a jug of whiskey Friday morning. The body, they say, was conveyed in a buggy to a point near where it was found and then placed on the track. Pressley's head was fractured in three places, and he has a small gash on his arm. The official report out that had he been struck by a train the body would have been crushed, or if a train had only struck his head, it would have been mashed out of all shape. They claim to have the man who did the killing under close surveillance, and an arrest may follow the inquest.

SOAKED IN COFFEE Until Too Stiff to Bend Over.

"When I drank coffee I often had sick headaches, nervousness and biliousness much of the time; but about two years ago I went to visit a friend and got in the habit of drinking Postum.
"I have never touched coffee since, and the result has been that I am now entirely well of all my stomach and nervous trouble. (The caffeine in coffee, the same drug found in opium).
"My mother was just the same way. We all drink Postum now, and have not had any coffee in the house for two years, and we are all well.
"A neighbor of mine, a great coffee drinker, was troubled with pains in her side for years, and was an invalid. She was not able to do her work, and could not even mend clothes or do anything at all where she would have to bend forward. If she tried to do a little hard work she would get such pains that she would have to lie down for the rest of the day.
"I persuaded her at last to stop drinking coffee and try Postum, and she did so, and she has used Postum ever since; the result has been that she can do her work, can sit for a whole day and mend and can sew on the machine, and she never feels the least bit of pain in her side. In fact, she has got well, and it shows coffee was the cause of the whole trouble.
"I could also tell you about several other neighbors who have been benefited by quitting coffee and using Postum in its place." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Passing of Conventions Such as That Held in Baltimore Predicted.

ALDERMAN PRAISES WILSON

His Victory Marks Return to Constructive Things, Declares Smith.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Woodrow Wilson's nomination marks a new era in the educational and cultural as well as the political development of the country, said President Edwin A. Alderman of the University of Virginia, in an address before the summer school of that institution. "The Democratic party needs its best man to lead at this time, it needs a man who knows things before he does them, rather than acting first and thinking afterwards; a man who would fight for an idea with iron in his blood. That sort of man has been chosen—a man of culture, of fine bearing, lofty training; a new man, to be sure, but a man, to be sure, but a man who has done no cheap bickering in the past and who has a clean record behind him."

It is predicted that in another eight years there will be no more national conventions of the character I have just witnessed. Such scenes will have become a thing of the past and written of as one of the peculiar features of the present-day method of politics. The nomination will come through presidential primaries, paid for out of the government treasury, and the convention that names the nominee will be as solemn as a college of cardinals selecting a Pope.

"Bryan was a curious figure at the convention. To me he was not always a heroic one, but there is no gainsaying that his personality dominated the convention and dictated the course eventually taken by the convention, which view is shared in, I notice, by Mr. Clark."

"When I saw those painted lithographs of Wilson and Underwood teased about in the stony demonstrations that followed the naming of Wilson, I thought they were two of the choicest offerings of that whole 1,000 delegates—two young Southerners, both sons of the University of Virginia."

That the nomination of Woodrow Wilson represents the effort by the people again to select such types of men as Jefferson and Madison is the opinion of Dr. Charles Alphonse Smith, Edgar Allan Poe professor of English in the University of Virginia. More than this, Dr. Smith said it represents the fact that the people are coming to appreciate that modern education and its foremost champion are not theoretical merely, but practical and efficient. He said it was imperative that the adherents of Wilson see to it that he is not misrepresented.

"The nomination of Woodrow Wilson means a realization on the part of the people of the fact that the scholar in politics has come to stay. The time was," he said, "when the people looked upon scholarship as impractical and upon the scholar as a mere theorizer. Now they realize that there is nothing between scholarship and efficiency. For twenty years the colleges and universities have been turning out practical men, which the public has been pretty slow to realize. The old conception was that a scholar is a mere book man. That is not true. The modern scholar is nothing if not practical and efficient."

Dr. Smith hoped the distinction which had been drawn by people in the past between the scholar and the practical man would be done away with. He said it was with gratification that the Democratic party was so quick to realize that the best type of scholar of to-day is a man of efficiency. He said the old antagonism by the people for the educated goes back to the Middle Ages, a time of fights between the gownmen and townsman. "We've reached the stage now," said he, "in which the modern school is viewed very differently when it turns out clear-headed and practical men. Woodrow Wilson is the finest type in the country of the scholar and not only of the scholar, but of the practical man, and I think the country is about to realize a new era. It marks, I hope, for the Democratic party a return of the Jeffersonian type. This marks the return to big constructive things."

Readers of The Times-Dispatch Suppose You Were a Multi-Millionaire's Wife

Have you any idea of what the life would be like? The maids, the masseuse, the manicure, the grooms and the butlers! And the social obligations! The goings and comings, the gowns and the jewels! It is not all that some of us think it is. Gertrude van Aiken, whose social status has given her an opportunity of seeing the wives of multi-millionaires at close range, contributes an article next Sunday, "How the Wife of the Multi-millionaire Keeps House." It is especially interesting.

And This You Must Not Miss—An Oppenheim Story

E. Phillips Oppenheim is a genius. He has that imagination that conceives strange stories, and he has the ability to tell his tales so that there is no flagging of interest, no lessening of suspense. "The Rosheimer Tragedy" is a murder mystery. And you will enjoy unraveling this mystery with the famous author as a guide. It is complete in next Sunday's magazine.

There Are Other Good Things for Next Sunday's Pleasure

The serial by Mrs. C. N. Williamson is drawing to a dramatic denouement. And in the series of "Women of the Great Outdoors" we have a sketch of Mabel Loomis Todd.

Humor Enough to Make You Happy All Day

You cannot resist laughing with "Yores for Art, Jimmy the Office Boy." His first dime novel made a tremendous hit, and if you do not laugh at his next story until your gizzard wobbles you might just as well make your will. It is called "Fadeaway Phil, the Boy Pitcher, or a World's Champeen at 14," and there is a smile in every line and a good laugh in every paragraph. There are some funny pictures with it, too.

Petersburg, Va., July 7.
In the Circuit Court of Prince George county yesterday, Archie Williams, colored, was tried for the felonious shooting of James Evans, colored, at a lawn party given at Evans' home on June 9. Some trouble arose between the two men, when Williams shot and severely wounded Evans. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty as charged, and fixed the punishment at one year in the penitentiary. Counsel for the accused moved the court to set the verdict aside and grant a new trial, which was granted.

Jefferson May Have Roof Garden.
John Sanderford, colored, indicted for assault and robbery, was defended by R. T. Wilson of this city and acquitted. Shortly before 11 o'clock last night a fight occurred near the Central Market between Jennie Wilson and George Turnbull, both colored, in which Wilson was badly and almost seriously injured. Turnbull slashed him with a knife inflicting a wound six inches long, across the right breast. Twenty-nine stitches were required to unite the parts. Joe Lynch, colored, in trying to separate the parties, was slightly cut. Turnbull was arrested.

Prince George School Fair.
A meeting of the officers of the School Fair Association will be held in this city the last of this week to name the time and place for holding the fair, and to consider plans for making the fair a great success. The whole county takes an interest in the School Fair, and the worked the children.

Petersburg Boy Scouts.
The Petersburg Boy Scouts spent a couple of days the past week in camp on the farm of Mr. Covington in Chesterfield, under command of Scout Marshal John Gilliam and Assistant—Rev. E. P. Dandridge. The days were pleasantly passed. The organization in Petersburg numbers 35 members, in form patrols, the heads of which are R. D. Gilliam, Jr., Willie Hayes, Charles Walthall and Willie Nufen.

Hotel Likely to Include It Among Other Improvements During Summer Season.
Among other extensive improvements now under way at the Jefferson Hotel, the management has under advisement the opening of a lavishly appointed roof garden, to be located on top of the Franklin Street wing. While none of the executive officers of the hotel was willing yesterday to admit that the roof garden plan had been definitely adopted, it was stated that the management has it under serious consideration, and that its installation at an early date was on the program.

"It may surprise most people to know that the Jefferson had a roof garden seventeen years ago," said Cashier Hunter McG. Bigger, last night. "Unless I am mistaken this hotel was the first one in the South to have one. It was located on the roof of the Franklin Street wing and ran into the natural arbors formed by the towers. We even had vaudeville on the roof long before there was such a thing as a vaudeville theater in Richmond. Some of the biggest artists in the country played in our nightly performances."

Garden in Balcony Form.
The Jefferson roof garden, if projected plans are carried out, will differ somewhat from the rectangular American type and approach more nearly to the balcony garden of a number of hotels in Europe. In its present form the roof of the Franklin Street wing of the hotel has a large rectangular central floor space, with alcoves on the same level leading into the towers at each of the Franklin Street corners. The central section of the garden commands a fine view of the West End residential section, while the alcoves permits sweeping views of most of the city.
